

LAMORNE MORRIS, '04

THEATER

Lamorne was a theater major at College of DuPage from 2001 – 2004 receiving an acting scholarship during his time at the College. He has gone on to become a professional actor, comedian and television personality whose accomplishments include performing at Chicago’s famed Second City, appearing as a series regular on the TV sitcom “New Girl” for seven seasons as well as having roles in numerous movies including “Game Night” and “Jumanji: The Next Level”. Most recently, Lamorne starred in the Hulu comedy “Woke” and is known to visit the College and specifically the theater department when he is in the area.